RASD / HEALTH POLICY OBSERVATORY

Middle East and North Africa Health Policy Observatory

Tracking and documenting decisions and developments in health systems in the region.

https://rasd-healthpolicy.org/

Monitoring changes in health system governance

RASD is an independent platform that aims to monitor and analyse health policy decisions and the development of health systems across the Middle East and North Africa. The platform was launched to fill an analytical gap in the Arab world by tracking public health policies, comparing governance paths, and enabling researchers and decision-makers to access accurate, up-to-date information that supports the formulation of fair and effective health strategies in the region.

Latest health policy updates

Explore updates on health policies and medical care decisions in the region. Topics featured on the website include mandatory insurance coverage for organ transplantation and health recovery and resilience plans in Syria and Yemen (2026–2030).

Dialogue and professional exchange forum

An interactive space dedicated to professionals and researchers to discuss the dimensions of health policies and their social impact. Featured discussion topics include data security in healthcare and artificial intelligence in medicine, including its therapeutic and ethical dimensions.

Stay informed about health policies

Register to receive the periodic monitoring bulletin on legislation and public health decisions in the Arab world. The website provides a newsletter registration option for readers to enter their full name, professional email and state or region.

Explore RASD Health Policy

Visit the official platform to explore regional updates, learn more about RASD, join professional discussions and find contact information.

https://rasd-healthpolicy.org/